There are many different types and colors of lights, but they all have one purpose – to provide light. The basic way light works is to reveal the properties of the object it reflects. Jesus told his followers they were the “light of the world” which means they are to reveal the properties of God to the world around them.

Read Matthew 5:13-16

- What do you think it would be like to live in a world without light?
- What challenges do you think you would face in a world without light?
- What do you think Jesus means for his followers to be the “light of the world”?
- What are some reasons a city might be built on a hill?
- How might a city built on a hill be seen in the dark of night?
- How would putting a light under a bowl undo the purpose of light?
- How does a light serving everyone in the home reveal that light cannot be kept to one’s self?
- In what ways might a follower of Jesus’ life be similar to a light shining for others?
- How would you describe the difference between good deeds for the purpose of the doer being seen and to glorify God?
- What are some specific ways your life can serve as reflection of God to the world around you?
