

CHANGE

SUNDAY, MARCH 29, 2020

We fear change – but God uses the changes in our lives to mold us into who he wants us to be. Change is a constant part of life and often brings tension and stress. Change is something we resist and seek to avoid if at all possible. But if we are all brutally honest with ourselves, we all need change to become better versions of “me.” And we all need change to be the version of “me” God wants me to be.

Read Genesis 12:1-9

- How do you typically respond to change?
- Why do you think so many people fear and are resistant to change?
- How would you describe the difference between a major change and a minor change?
- How might you have responded if God asked of you what he asked of Abraham?
- Would your response change based on the promise God made to Abraham? Why or why not?
- Why do you think Abraham went?
- How much convincing do you think it took for Abraham to get others to go with him?
- During what appears to be lengthy travels, would discouragement or doubt creep into your mind? How do you think Abraham pressed on?
- What steps do you take to persevere when change gets difficult?
- What next step will you take to embrace the change God wants to accomplish in and through you?
