Your life has a profound meaning. You're called to a life of purpose. It's not just what you do. It's who you are. Discover your purpose and passion, stoke the fire in your soul, and become who God intends and desires you to be.

READ EPHESIANS 4:1-2

- What do you think of when you think of the word, calling?
- What are some ways we get so wrapped up in our plans that we dismiss interruptions that could serve us well?
- What are some ways God might want to interrupt whatever you are doing for relationship with him?
- If there was a message about life and God that you would “beg” people to consider, what would it be?
- What are some tensions you feel about what it might mean to “live a life worthy” in relationship with God?
- How are the tensions you experience about being worthy alleviated by knowing that Jesus didn't come because people were worthy but to make people worthy in God's eyes?
- What does it mean that God is calling you to a “who” before a “do” (meaning that no matter what we do, God is interested in who we are becoming)?
- What does it mean to be humble? How are you doing with that?
- What does it mean to be gentle? How are you doing with that?
- What does it mean to be patient? How are you doing with that?
- What next step will you take to allow God to interrupt whatever else is going on for relationship with him?
