SELFLESS – PART 3: EVERYTHING
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 2022

Many people tend to live in seasons looking toward the next season to bring them satisfaction and happiness. Whenever we live this way, we miss so much of what God has for us in the journey. And sometimes the reason we live this way is because the central focus of our approach to life is “me.” But everything changes when we shift our focus and approach from doing things for me to doing everything for God’s glory.

READ 1 CORINTHIANS 10:31

- What do you think it means to do everything for God’s glory?
- What are some things that distract us from doing things for God’s glory?

READ 1 CORINTHIANS 15:9-10

- Why might Paul have reflected on a previous season of life when things weren’t as they should be?
- Are there lessons you can learn from previous seasons of life? If so, what are some of the lessons learned?
- What are some ways we can wish away the current season of life hoping a future season will bring satisfaction, happiness, and fulfillment?
- What are some ways a “next season” failed to deliver the level of satisfaction, happiness, and fulfillment you thought it might?
- Do you agree it is important to find satisfaction, happiness, and fulfillment in something or someone beyond circumstances? Why or why not?
- What do you think it means for God’s grace to be poured out on someone?
- What do you think it means for God’s grace to not be without effect?
- How can God’s grace being poured out shift our focus and approach from “me” to who God intends for me to become?
- What are some ways comfort can distract us from the effect of God’s grace?
- What are some ways the next shiny thing can distract us from the effect of God’s grace?
- What are some ways the temptation to quit can distract us from the effect of God’s grace?
- What next step will you take to leverage everything in every season for God’s glory?
